You ask, What can you do?

Much, every way.

1. Be yourselves true to freedom, to the right & true, on all occasions. Do not connive at, or have any part in, the wrong wh. Slavery does. Make no compromises with its insidious & baleful spirit. Let your daily life be a true Protest against Slavery & whatsoever supports it. Like y. Xn. f. &c., (when to be a Xn. cost something, demanded a daily sacrifice of ease, comfort, reputation, & ~~y. like~~, a daily offering of faith & courage) - Like y. Xn. f. &c., make yourselves "living epistles, known & read of all men".

2. Speak for y. right, and for those who are truly laboring in its behalf. While you may sometimes feel called to dissent from their views, in some particulars, ~~to differ question y. wisdom of the tone of their recommendation~~, do not stop with this; do not allow yourselves only to condemn y. mistakes, as you think them, of true & honest disciples of liberty & humanity. Give utterance to ~~y~~ a manly honor of their ~~daily~~ devotion, ~~their~~ stern faithfulness to principle, their unflinching loyalty to what they see & know of truth, Their mistakes are but y. motes in a brother's eye, - we do not look at them alone; - ~~they are driven away and~~ ~~shrink from y. noble & shining qualities they exhibit~~. These sterner qualities, rough tho' they may be, repelling as they may be to some, are precisely those which gave y. martyrs of truth their glory, and have made them immortal in y. memories of man.

1½. Withhold all support from men who are not true to freedom. Trust them neither in State nor Church. Have y. true spirit in yourselves, & suffer yourselves to be represented by no other. To such at last it is a duty to vote.

2. Act for y. right. Such speaking as I have already urged upon you, in freedom's behalf, will in itself be an act, a telling, powerful act.

But like every other cause. & those especially wh. depend on enlightening y. judgment, informing y. mind, arousing y. conscience of y. people, - this cause must have its instrumentalities. Simple & few they are, but of mighty power - The Living Voice, and The Wonder-working Printing Press. These, when directed by fidelity, wisdom, & uprightness are of influence — I do not hesitate to call omnipotent — and this because they rely on God, on God's own weapons — truth, and light; ~~they will to them~~ Reason & conviction.

To diffuse truth — to spread information — to cause y. all-penetrating light to shine into every heart — to arouse y. Conscience — to call every man to his post of duty — this is y. work of those who have consecrated themselves to y. Anti Slavery ~~work~~ Cause. There truths, they know, y. people ought to hear — they feel y. they must hear them — & they believe, y. if they do hear them, they will not slight them. And they ask y. Apostle's question, "How can they hear, without a preacher — how can they preach, except they be sent?"

& You may greatly help this cause,

1. By contributions according to yr. ability, and as God has blessed you, to sustain y. laborers in this vineyard.

2. By procuring & circulating y. works printed.

MS. B. L. G v. 13, p. 34

3. (& this in a special manner) by subscribing to & circulating y^e^ journals & papers devoted to this work.

Opposed as these are, by all y^e^ mere partizans & self-seekers of every political and theological creed, they rely solely on those who will not give up to party what was meant for mankind.' The n^o^. of these is increasing - every one, who stands boldly forth, y^e^ advocate of justice & of righteousness produces a marked & perceptible influence; and aid in lifting higher, & nearer to y^e^ truth, y^e^ tide of public Sentiment around them,

[I shd. be glad to act as ~~you~~ a steward of your bounty & good will to y^e^ Antislv. Cause. You wish you will say, to see it grow. Will you not, then, do Something to help it along.]
